EBERWHITE NEIGHBORHOOD ROCKS!

Eberwhite Kids' Courier

Life in the Library (Part 2) by Lena Von Moltke

Right as the class heard the scream coming from Mrs. Fukini's room they huddled up to Saffron but she said, "I thought you guys did not agree with me, so buzz off!!!" Everybody looked startled. They had never seen her so brave before. But right then they entered the library, and guess what they saw: they saw dinosaurs heading right toward them!!! AAAHHH!!! "What?!" said Saffron, "you're not afraid of them, are you?" Then the dinosaur came straight at them and they were about to be attacked when someone hit Saffron on the side of her glasses in all the excitement and suddenly rays shot out of Saffron's glasses!! The dinosaur died and she made the rest of the creatures go back into the books. When all of them were back in their books, the kids and the teachers had the best library party ever!!!! It was the best First Day Of School EVER!!!!!!

THE END!!!

Submissions from Lena Von Moltke and Daniel Hathaway

Howdy!

I've gotten two super submissions this week. One is Lena Von Moltke's "Life in the Library (Part 2)." It's a thrilling conclusion to her story! It's the article above.

Another submission is Wolverine and Cyclopes by Daniel Hathaway. It's amazingly talented artwork! See it on Page 4 in the Art Box.

The Wakefield Courier?

Recently, I was rooting around in my old stuff when I came across an old newspaper dated January 6th, 2006. It was called the Wakefield Courier, and I'd written it (with my mom) in first grade! It was the basis for the EKC!

Below is an article from the Wakefield Courier:

"It was the basis for the EKC!"

"School Starts on Monday!" the Title Page Article of the WC

On Monday, January 9, 2006, Eberwhite School starts again, after a long, winter vacation break. The teachers and students have had winter vacation for two weeks. It was cold and rainy during some of the break. It may be snowy on Monday. The school advises all children to dress in warm clothes and bring their boots. To save money on heating costs, the school has lowered the heat.

Miss Smith gave her first graders a homework assignment, which is due sometime during the first week back.

Aleyah Austin, who is in second grade at Eberwhite, said, "My teacher, Mr. Brison, has played paper hangman with us. He does it to teach us how to spell."

Phunny Picture Captions

Below are three pictures. One has a hilarious caption. The others, however, don't have captions! Email us your idea for a caption for just one of them or both of them. It'll be in the next issue in this article space!

I'm hatchin' a plan to destroy the city!

Halloween (Part 1)

Kitty looked at the Halloween decorations in K-mart. Most of them were cheesy, like the streamers pictured to the right. She was looking for something SCARY! Her younger brother, Hunter, looked longingly at the skeleton head which said, "I'll tell you your fortune."

"Hurry up!" said Kitty, "We have to get home by 8!"

In the end, Hunter got a bag of candy corn, one of which had a little speaker in it, and when you touched it, it would say, "I'll eat YOU up!" Kitty got a fake skeleton which was so realistic, she'd thought it had been a real one at first. Kitty sent Hunter home while she waited in line to buy their things. When Kitty got outside, she checked her watch. 8:02! It was after curfew! Then, Kitty heard an evil laugh from the shadows! (To be continued)

Confused Says:

Macbeth says life is great and never ending in Shakespeare. The line is very famous. He says it when his wife survives and the wood doesn't come to his castle.

STONE	DEEP WATERS	STREAM	MUD
I see it, All speckled with, Yellowandblue, And I reach my hand, Into the water, Togetit. I dig into the soil, And Pullitout, And I study it, And put it on a, Rocktoday.	Or "Imagination" I look into them, And find a stone. I pull it out. It could be from anywhere! It's from Egypt! See, it has hiero- glyphs! It's from the Pacific Ocean, and trade routes brought it here! Or it's a rock from the creek.	It runs, Sparkling, Tripping over itself, In haste to, Get I-don't-know-where, Running on, Over stone, Over dirt, For eternity. Seemingly, For the poet's amuse- ment.	My book slips, Into it, I pull the boot, Out with a, Squelch. I wash my boot off, In the stream, And look to find, The boot-mark, Filled with water.
